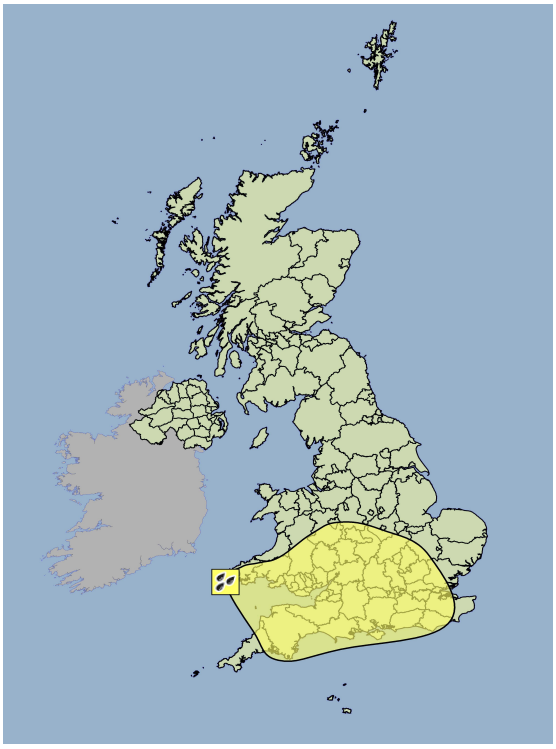
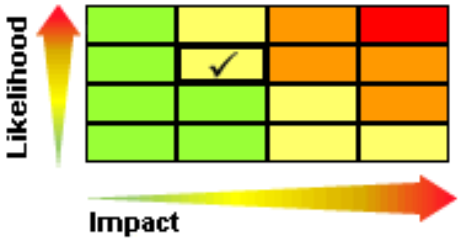
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
A showery southwesterly airstream will affect England and Wales during Saturday. Within this airstream some more organised zones of heavy rain are likely, with lightning and gusty winds as additional hazards, these focused near coastal areas. Rainfall accumulations of 10-20 mm may occur in 3-4 hours, while a few locations may see 30 to 50 mm over the entire period.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Rain

Valid from 10:35 on Sat, 09th Jan 2016 until 22:00 on Sat, 09th Jan 2016

Outbreaks of showery rain, heavy and thundery in places, will continue at times until late Saturday. Given saturated conditions, please be aware that this may well lead to some surface water flooding and disruption to transport.

This is a further update, expanding the area further east. It now looks like conditions should improve from the west later in the day, so the end time has been brought forward to late evening.
